Numb. 3036

Thursday November 24. 1743.

Yesterday arrived a Mail from France.

Madrid, November 6.

HE Marquis de Castris, Lieutenant-General of the King's Armies, set out on the 27th of last Month for Lisbon, in order to go by Sea to Copenhagen; where he is to assume the Character of Envoy Extraordinary of his Catholick Majesty. The Court has sent Orders to the Intendant of Barcelona, to provide Quarters immediately for a Body of Troops that are to march into Catalonia, and from thence to join the Army of Don Philip in Savoy; and, in the mean time, to send a Detachment of 5 or 6000 Men to reinforce the Army of his Royal Highness, that it may be able to act offensively in the Spring. The Marquis de Perelada, who was Purveyor General of our Troops in Savoy, has been recalled; and on his Arrival at Barcelona, the Intendant signified to him, that it was his Majesty's Pleasure that he should not proceed further; upon which he thought proper to retire to the Convent of Montserat, situated at some Distance from that City, in the Mountains. As several Persons have died lately at Ceuta of a Distemper suspected to be the Plague, all Communication with that Place is prohibited with more Strictness than ever.

Fribourg, November 18. General Damnitz, our Governor, has dispatched two Couriers to Vienna, with Advice, that on the 16th a Body of 4000 French Troops had passed the Rhine at Hunninguen, as an Escort to a considerable Train of Artillery, and a large Convoy of Bombs, Bullets, Powder, and other Ammunition; and we have this Moment Advice, that the Marquis de Bacourt, at the Head of 26,000 Men, began to pass the River at Six this Morning; and that the Design of the Attack is to form the Blockade, if not the Siege of this City. We have also received Advice by a Courier from Dusseldorp, that Preparations are making for assembling an Army of Neutrality in the Neighbourhood of that City; which, it is said, will consist of between 60 and 70,000 Men; and which, it is pretended, will be commanded by the Prince of Anhalt Dessau. The Troops that were left in the Brisgau are drawing together again; and, in the space of a few Days, will be 20,000 strong.

Basil, November 20. We were surprized this Morning with the News, that the French had passed the Rhine again with a considerable Body of Troops, which were shortly to be augmented to 30,000 Men, and were to be commanded by M. Coigny in Person, to execute a Design of great Importance; and, in Consequence of which, the French Court expects his Imperial Majesty will be soon restored to his Hereditary Dominions. It is thought the Austrians, tho' they might soon march a considerable Body of Forces that Way, cannot easily find Provisions to subsist them, the Brisgau being entirely eaten up; and the adjacent Countries exhausted to such a degree, by maintaining several Armies, that it will be impossible for them to procure any Thing; so that they must rely on the Supplies they receive from Bavaria, and the Queen of Hungary's Hereditary Countries. The last Letters from Geneva say, that the King of Sardinia's Troops in pursuit of the Spaniards, had entered the French Dominions, and burnt two or three Villages to the Ground. The French Minister to the Cantons has proposed an Augmentation of the Forces in the Service of his Most Christian Majesty, by adding a Battalion to each Regiment, and by enlarging the Number of Men in each Company on the old Establishment. His Catholick Majesty also is desirous of entertaining more of our Troops; which is not a little wonder'd at, since above half of the last new-rais'd Regiment is said to have deserted for want of Pay and Provision.

Hague, November 28. It is generally believed here, that the British Minister settled Things to his Satisfaction, in his late Conference with our Regency; which we gather'd, chiefly, from the Marquis de Fenelon's Change of Language. He talks of nothing now but War, and of the Necessity that France lies under of taking Vengeance for the late Attempt upon her Frontiers; and he even insinuates, that when once the Sword is drawn, it will be no easy Matter to engage the King, his Master, to return it into its Scabbard; all which is understood here, as tending to engage their High Mightinesses to offer a Mediation, or, at least a Neutrality: But as it would not agree very well with this Sort of Discourse to propose such a Thing directly, it is believed the Offer will be made by the Imperial Minister. According to private Letters from Russia, the Czarina is not at all averse to his Royal Swedish Highness's Marriage with the Princess of Denmark; but it is foreseen, that there will be great Difficulty found in persuading the Imperial Prince to part with his Hereditary Dominions, to which he does not shew the least Inclination, notwithstanding the Offer made by Denmark to guaranty his Succession in Russia. These Letters intimate, that the Marquis de la Chetardie is indeed charged with a Proposition relative to the Marriage of the Prince last mentioned; but not as has been suggested, to a Princess of France, but to the Sister of a German Monarch.

Extract from the Paris Alamain.

Paris, November 29. 'M. Noailles arrived here last 'Sunday, and the same Day set out for Choisy, where 'he had a Conference with the King, which lasted for 'two Hours.

'His Majesty has declared, that the Marriage of the 'Duke de Chartres and Mademoiselle de Conty, shall be 'celebrated on the 20th of next Month.

'M. de Lowendahl, formerly in the Service of Russia, 'has obtained the King's Leave to raise a Regiment, 'which is to be commanded by himself as Colonel.

'Fifteen Battalions of our Troops are actually defiling 'towards Provence.

'General Count de Grunes set out last Wednesday, in 'order to return to Vienna.

'The Report is general, that the Austrians will demolish the Fortifications of Fribourg, and evacuate the 'Brisgau.

'They write from Hunninguen, that M. de la Rauoye, 'who, with 800 Pioneers, and 4000 Troops, is on the 'other Side of the Rhine, has begun to erect three Redoubts, and to throw up other Entrenchments, in order to cover the Head of his Bridge.

'The same Letters add, that the Expedition to Old 'Brisac is put off till next Spring.

'They are busy at Versailles in constructing a Wooden 'Machine, of eight Foot long, by five Foot broad, cut thro' the Middle, which is to go from the Top to the 'Bottom of the Castle, in one of the Little Courts of 'the Little Apartments; in which there is to be placed 'an Easy Chair, so properly poised by Weights, as that 'a Person seated in it, may ascend, or descend, without 'going up or down Stairs.

'Besides the fourteen Men of War that are now equipping at Brest, Orders have been sent to fit out four 'more.

'They write from Toulon, that the Squadron there 'is ready to sail; and that they only expect the Troops 'that, as we mentioned in our last, are to embark there, 'in order to proceed on the intended Expedition.

'The same Letters add, that they have lately launch'd 'there a new Man of War, called Le Tonnant, of 80 'Guns; which is the finest Ship that was ever built in 'that Port.'

IRELAND.

Dublin, November 9. His Majesty has been pleased to return the following most gracious Answer to the Address of the House of Commons.

'The Assurances of their grateful Sense of his Majesty's Concern for the Good of his Subjects, as well as 'of their Readiness to grant the necessary Supplies, were 'very acceptable to his Majesty; and they may always 'rely upon his Favour and Protection, and his constant 'Resolution to promote the Security, Honour, and Prosperity of his Kingdom of Ireland.'

The same Letters say, that the Thoughts of the Ministry, are, at present, entirely occupied about a Secret Expedition by Sea, which is generally conceived to be against the Queen of Hungary's Dominions in Italy: But that some People fancy it has quite another Intention.
